

Gone but never forgotten

Drupal 7

Released in early 2011, Drupal 7 holds a special place in the hearts of all who used it. Beloved for its reliability and flexibility, it powered countless websites and communities over its long lifespan. As we bid farewell to this iconic version, Drupal 7 passes the torch to its successors—Drupal 8, 9, 10, and beyond. Its legacy will live on, inspiring the continued evolution of the Drupal ecosystem. Rest in peace, Drupal 7—you will always be remembered fondly.

Drupal 7 End of Life

Drupal 7, the popular open-source content management system, officially reached its end of life (EOL) on January 5, 2025, after being extended multiple times to give users more time to upgrade. This marks the end of official support, meaning no more security updates, bug fixes, or new features from the Drupal community. Organizations still using Drupal 7 are strongly encouraged to upgrade to Drupal 9 or 10 to maintain security and take advantage of modern features. Staying on Drupal 7

Drupal Creator Dries Buytaert

We hope that you will carry on with your Drupal journey after the untimely demise of Drupal 7.

Quote

"14 years of Drupal glory"
— Kevin James...probably

Quote

"Druped till I dropped, 4 stars"
— Quintin

Quote

"Every moment spent with Drupal 7 was a taste of pure bliss"
— Christian

Grief Services

Feeling sad about the loss of Drupal 7? Please consider counselling services at The Okanagan College

Get Help Now.

Drupal Connect

Feeling lonely after the end of Drupal 7? Make new relationships with other like minded Drupalers. Try Drupal Connect now. Brought to you by The Drupalers.

Connect Now!

In memory of Drupal 7

👉 A site by The Regex Renegades 👉

Sign in to leave a eulogy!

Christian Casey

New query for the final picture

person person

Thoughts and prayers

person person

sdfs'; DROP TABLE user; --

Kevin James

14 years of Drupal glory. We laughed, we cried, and we even learned a thing or two. Rest easy Drupal 7.

Tony Hawk

Drupal 7 taught me how to kickflip. I'll never forget all the good times we had. RIP

Kartavya Patel

I don't know how I'm going to live without you around anymore, Drupal 7

Preet Grewal

Kody Iverson

Christian Casey